The introduction might be: "Need to write an introduction to your blog post? Here's how!" - or "You'll never believe what I learned by reading this article!" - or even just the title of the post. You can also do whatever you want! The sky's the limit! **But please, please, PLEASE refrain from submitting anything with profanity in it**.

To make your article more appealing, make it catchy. You can do this by writing down your title first (without the "About This Article"). Then write down the following parts of it ("About This Article"): Your name (for example, Chris) Your blog post URL (for example, <http://www.yourwebsite.com/blog-post-123>) A short sentence or two about your blog post (for example, "This blog post talks about how to..." - just a few sentences about the topic). Or even better, write down an entire blog post! Don't cram everything into this box! It's not necessary to do so.

What is this blur of stuff? You can read more about some of the things you can do if you want to make your article more appealing.

Some tips on how to make it more appealing are found here: <http://onesite.com/blog-post-tips.pdf> (PDF)

Select your name and type it into the first box. Also, if you want to, type in a description of what you're offering. For example: "Only 1 left! Get it before it's gone forever!" - or "This is a very popular item!" - or even just, "This is an extremely popular item and will be sold out soon!". Simply type anything you want to say (to try to sell the item), as long as it has nothing to do with profanity!

If you're selling something that somebody can download, then you must include two links: One for the product page and one for the actual file itself. You can include these links at the bottom of your article, in the next to the last section.

If you want to add something that will help your customers feel more comfortable about buying from you, then you can add a message to your customers by typing this into the box: "I guarantee that every customer I have will receive their product under $$$ days after buying it. If not, I will give them $$$!" (The amount should be something small - never give away too much - otherwise people won't want to sell anything.
